

Subject: YouTube sites I recommend

My practice with a purpose technique:

I recommend you pick a topic. Then research 5-10 videos on that topic. Practice the technique on a few images until it comes comfortable and part of your normal editing toolbox.

Here are some of the YouTube Artists that I recommend.

1. PiXimperfect

This guy is more of a compositor, phot retouching, anything PS... but knows PS very well. Depending on what you are researching, if he has a video on the topic, I would select it. I use this one a bunch!!! He is one of my favorites because he really explains what PS is doing with each step.

2. f64 Academy

<https://www.youtube.com/c/EverydayHDR/featured>

This is PS for photographers (no much compositing)... One of my favorite sites.

Play list on color...

click on the "VIEW FULL PLAYLIST" under a topic and add them to your watch library

Another one of my favorites..
Both basic and advanced topics

IF YOU USE TK LUMINOSITY TOOLS

4. The Joy of Editing with Dave Kelly

His TK8 video playlist

https://www.youtube.com/playlist?list=PLRE7yCI-SQfQA2Z-pibZvi8_bqm-9U2fY

BASICS.. I generally don't use this one anymore but I started here

5. PHLEARN

<https://www.youtube.com/c/phlearn/playlists>

This guy sometimes has some good stuff too... good for beginners

6. photoshopCAFE

<https://www.youtube.com/c/photoshopcafe/playlists>

These are old (most still relevant), but specific to a tool you might want to learn
